ALLIANCE WITH ASIA ONLY HOPE FOR HUNS TO COERCE BRITAIN

(By Associated Press)
COPENHAGEN, Aug. 27.—George Bernhard, political writer of the Berlin Vossische Zeitung, advocates a revision of the Brest-Litovsk treaty which shall secure for Germany an alliance with Russia and the "Asiatic line" attached to Russia. After declaring all German offers of peace would be rejected by England, he says: "Their acceptance can be expected upon only if England's position on the political chessboard is rendered such that there is no course for her but acceptance. The vital idea now of the German policy must hence be directed toward the creation of a group of powers, which have a word to say concerning English efforts either to carry on the war or at peace conference or at least in the matter of conducting an economic warfare. No German longer denies that the Brest-Litovsk treaty is the chief obstacle for the formation of such a group."
